

The Promise

An 18-year-old stumbles across her dying grandfather's diary, written while serving as a British soldier in Mandate Palestine after World War II. Diary in hand on a trip to Israel, she tries to fulfil a promise he made in 1948.

Written and directed by Peter Kominsky, this drama first aired on British TV in February 2011 to 1.8 million viewers.

“a gripping portrayal of two stories set in the same land”—Metro. “a magnificent and powerful piece of drama . . . I can't recommend it enough.”—Harriet Sherwood, the Guardian website. “It's finely crafted, beautifully shot and extremely well written.”—Christina Patterson, The Independent. “Well-grounded in the history”—Ian Black, The Guardian website. “Immensely watchable”—David Chater, The Times.
